This is important information on changes in your Personal Choice 65 Prime Rx coverage.

We previously sent you the Annual Notice of Change (ANOC), which provided information about changes to your coverage as an enrollee in our plan. This notice is to let you know there are errors in your ANOC. Below you will find information describing and correcting the errors. Please keep this information for your reference. On August 16, 2022, President Biden signed the Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) of 2022 into law. The IRA intends to lower Medicare program costs and provide stable and predictable out-of-pocket costs for prescription drugs.

Beginning April 1, 2023, cost-sharing for Part B rebatable drugs must not exceed the coinsurance amount set quarterly by Medicare for that Part B rebatable drug. Part B rebatable drugs may be in either of these categories:

- Chemotherapy administration services to include chemotherapy/radiation drugs
- Other drugs covered under Medicare Part B

Beginning July 1, 2023, we must cover Part B insulin at the Medicare coinsurance cap of $35 for a one-month supply of insulin. Medicare mandates that both coinsurance and copayment amounts must not exceed the $35 cap.
